

How I and India dance together

“My two-year dairy in India”

Author:Lee¹

Abstract:The author as a Chinese student studying in India from 2014-2016 has been keeping recording what happened on between him and his classmates,professors,friends,and local surroundings.He always observes Indian social,economic,political and cultural phenomena in a dual-perspective manner:an insider living in India and an outsider growing up in China.He is more dedicated to analysis of Indian issues through systematic readings,like news,articles,journals and magazines,even though he visited many different places by himself in India.He has been striving for the interests of weaker sections in India,because social injustice is deeply rooted in the caste-based society.He has impressive experience with his classmates on interchange of life philosophy and happiness creation,all these guidance from them would become his wealth of life.He insists that India have a great potential,if she could overcome some essential structural challenges.

Key words:Chinese student,two year dairy,study in India.

The following dairies are arranged from 2016 year to 2014 year

Yesterday's interesting observation from farewell party:

When one student plays a game during an event,he may win or lose it.My emphasis is that he always says to others who start at him,whether he wins or loses this game.

With a normal logic,I think that he should say to others it is a small case for him,if he succeeds in this game.However,it is against our logic,he says to others it is a tough and challenging task.In another one situation,he also says to others it is quite difficult task to be completed,if he really loses in this game.

How is it possible for a same person to say the same sentence under two different situations?It is possible for us to understand,because every logic would be revealed if we place his point on the basis of self-interest assumption.

When he loses it,he should be reasonable to say the game is difficult for him to finish it.Here,actually,it is not the game itself that is difficult,after all,other competitors complete it.The essence is that he is not capable to get it done,or he is really a loser.However,as you know that,he should do something for his self-interest(here,for avoid embarrassment),hence,he tries to persuade others to believe that it is not about his capability,instead only about too tough task given.

When he wins it,he should be reasonable to say the game is a small case for him.Exactly,lots of winners do it like this,but this will show some overconfidence attitudes towards others.This sentence is revealing that all others are losers,I am the king,so you should admire and follow me without hesitation.This is a direct way to show off himself,it is easy to bring in envies and unhappiness.His strategy should serve his interest,so,he says that this game is quite complicated,he has tried his best to complete it,but I hardly fails.Here,he uses this "difficult" task defined by him to indirectly show his unique talent to others.It means that he also spends lots of energy and thinking in getting it done,even though he finally becomes the winner.The real point is that he indirectly demonstrates that he is the king,because I could complete this "too too tough task"(the toughness is defined by himself).

This is what is called "Game theory" strategy.

World bank,IMF have more confidence on Chinese economy,in comparison with news media in Western society.This is a very interesting phenomenon,because both of international institutions are dominated by USA.Chinese economy has lots of challenges,because of unsustainable structure and developmental model.However,there is a good sign in Chinese academic circle that they advocate the key role of enterprises in economic growth,instead of emphasizing governmental macroeconomic demand policy.No country could go to prosperity without focusing on entrepreneurs,governmental functions should be confined to investment environment,property right protection,basic science research,etc.

With regard to the video edited by my classmates,I think I could do slightly better than this.Of course,considering about limited time left,that is quite good for us to understand what happened during two years.

Thanks a lot for Ravindra,Shivam(without glasses),Bomyir and her friends,Vivek,Satyajeet, Mausamin(wrong spell),Shobit's invitation to take photos with them,I wish all of you could progress well,having a happy family and good jobs.Thanks also to Rakesh Kumar for his translation from Hindi to English,he got his world perspective,history perspective modified due to several time discussions with me.Primary school education is a big challenge for Indian government,because lots of wrong facts are also taught to innocent students.China also has this type of problem,but exactly less.Aman Kumar has also done a good job.Thanks Satarupa for invitation to participate in a challenging task--dance.

Congratulations to all of winners,because you are really impressive.You all just keep going on,because you deserve all flowers and screams.Usually,Indian people are more dedicated to festivals,ceremonies and functions than our people,this is a signal of happiness and enjoyment.However,sometimes,emotions and feelings are excessively loudly expressed,so,it seems that order and discipline are lost.Culture is different,I just show some differences,we should learn from each other.

Your horizons decide your path of life.The two years give me relaxing atmosphere,I do not need to worry about many things beyond my control like in my home country.I hope I also could have this type of normal life attitudes in future,my nation is totally different from here in terms of social values.If I could bring happiness and eternity into my life,then my purpose of staying near Ganges river is fulfilled.

Today,I met Ms Puja's sister who is doing her PHD in IMS.I rode my bike to the vendor,and asked him to bring me Lassi(milk).In the beginning,I said I need Lassa(wrong name),afterwards,Petty(maybe wrong) and her friend(she did her master in Lucknow university) were conscious of something,therefore,they said to that shopkeeper that he need Lassi.When I got Lassi,Petty asked me if I knew Puja.I said to her:"Yes,I knew Puja,and you and her are quite similar in appearance"She continued,your name is Lee,from China,Puja always mentions you in front of me.I replied thanks to her and her friends,some conversations with each other,we finally said bye.

Last time,I attended sociology class(Hindi-speaker).On the way to the department,suddenly, a girl smiled to me,asking me whether I am Lee,studied in Economics department.With help of one of my classmates,I knew that she is our senior from history department(PHD).She said to me:"I always see you when your department is in new PG building".It seems that I need to have more conversations with other departments' students for more understanding on Indian society ,especially spiritual issues.

Today,I also met three seniors on the way to their hostels.They are from N East India,all of them get seats of PHD,one of them takes "rural tourism"as his topic for continuous research.

I am tired,Good night.

Today,I took photos with my partner Satarupa.Last night,She sent me message to inform me of today's group photo.I just recorded it for future reviews.

As for Sheker's case,I felt sorry for my refusal to sign my name in your request letter of changing exam schedule.The reason is that your page is full of Hindi words(beautiful),I do not understand what they mean.Our tradition is that without understanding something,I should not randomly sign a contract. This is a cultural issue.

These days, why I asked them so many times about some subjects is because I need to update my news from department. We should follow principal that once an organization decides something, then you should never randomly change that decision. This is the whole East Asian countries' culture under Confucianism philosophy. However, our department of Economics is not always following this concept.

Summer comes, then my body will suffer from skin problem. At this time, I am inclined to criticize all social phenomena, including Indian society. Winter seasons are my favorite time in India. I wish all of us achieve our goals, I am inborn interested in exploring different societies, I will continue my road. In any place, any time, I do not harm any person regardless your gender deliberately, some religious guidance calm me down.

As an Economics student, actually, I have some reservations on some professors' ways of teaching, because quality teaching in Economics fields is the basic skill to empower students. If you have some skewed ideological inclinations, then your points of views would unintentionally influence your students' ways of thinking. For example, my professor said to us that he insisted on modest growth rate of economy, because he emphasized much on economic equality and human development. However, I personally more stand closer to liberals who place more importance on priority of economic growth. I dislike that every people is just talking about redistribution of small cake, of course, providing equal access to education, health, food and basic rights is essential for the whole country. The poor are working hard, thinking much, but they are still in poverty trap, then, we ascribe chronic poverty to government's dysfunction. Sometimes, you find it meaningless and useless to involve students in a unpractical debate on function of market and state, after all, history and future facts would demonstrate what is more functional.

What my ideas shaped during my classes about Indian economy are? There is no big break change in terms of current challenges and future prospects, like, labour unionism, PSUs, Corruption, Inefficient politics, Infrastructure bottleneck, Land reform, Financial inclusion, Woman empowerment, Education, Health, Environment, Fiscal deficit discipline, Subsidies, Non developmental expenditure, Manufacturing, Job creation, Investment business, etc. The biggest influence from my professor and his matters on me is that I more believe that the state's role is as equal as important as the market, capitalism system is full of exploitation, globalization produces dependency of developing countries on developed countries, economic planning should be positively evaluated, politics almost shaped the whole scenario of Indian economy, and so on. However, all these doctrines are against my basic beliefs, because I just trust "Austrian school of Economic", the market is more fundamental than the state in terms of allocation of resources.

Now-days, almost all Economists support the mix strategy of fiscal and monetary policies, but I understand that Economic system is no different from our human bodies. When I feel uncomfortable with our body,I have to see doctor for treatment,so I can get recovered.When it comes to Economics,what the government did during 2008 financial crisis is just about generating another one type of more serious global economic crisis.This is what the situation China faces currently,government should play a good role in supervising contracting implementation,property protection,regulation of speculation,etc.Essentially,What the philosophy and cognitive science tells me is in congruence with what the economics tells me.Please remember,don't rely on your government much,whichever style of life you desire of depends on yourself freedom of choice.Government is the biggest threat to our freedom of Choice(Economically).

Economics is always interrelated with politics,this point is quite disappointing.Economics is not a pure science despite advanced math usages,because politics is never a science subject practically.

04,Apr,2016

Today,I ate my breakfast and lunch together at 6 PM o'clock.At that time,I hardly felt how death was like.From tomorrow,I need to find time for a proper lunch,spirit should be constructed on the basis of food absorption.

04,Apr,2016

As an ordinary man,I can not change the society where I am living within one day,even during my whole life.However,It does not mean I should keep a closed eye on what is happening to our people if there are some negative impacts on them.I always strive for a better society,as a young man,I have an ideal blueprint for all people.I just keep going on with the changing society,but keep myself awake,so I will not easily follow some mainstream values.

01,Apr,2016

Why?Who should be responsible for those victims?This is exactly why I have some reservations on unresponsive democracy.Lots of passengers were killed,but none of higher officials was laid off.Life is not fully respected,lack of serious punishment is problematic.I can only express my deep condolences to all of innocent people.

01,Apr,2016

Who knows the truth behind this?Economic activity is never disassociated from politics interactions,but I do not think a government prefers sacrificing her people's interests instead satisfying other country's appetite.What's new with you?

30,Mar, 2016

If we respect his human right,then he has to be detained in jail for his whole life.It is against morality and humanity,irrespective of your mental status.We should see what you have done,instead of who has done it.It is unthinkable,god damn you."Suspect in child's beheading has psychiatric treatment record: police | Society | FOCUS TAIWAN"

29,Mar,2016

Today,that junior girl from Manipur state asked me for help of some materials related to AK model,but I have already lent two books to others,so I had to download some articles from internet,then printed it out.Our batch is Bomyir from Arunachal Pradesh,her batch is only her from North eastern India,actually,majority of NE students are studying in New Delhi,every corner has their body shadows.Of course,I wish more and more boys participate in Economic programs,but they all transfer themselves to Politics and Law subjects.Economics is also useful for NE development.

29,Mar,2016

Too many things are hotly debated,lack of consensus is a big challenge for India's future and her people.When I just read some articles relating to India's development strategy,it is really disappointing to say so far academicians have not reached a common point in many economic,social fields.So,what the truth is?

29,Mar,2016

Yesterday,I met my former head of Economics department,M.P Singh.I warmly walked to him,and said to him that I liked your class and your management philosophy.He is a really kind professor and head,you could find him siting in his chamber every time.All in all,he is a respected teacher,even if he does not understand much about computer,smartphone,and so on

29,Mar,2016

Sometimes,my body is also not working properly,so,I need to relax it to a maximum extent.Watching movies,listening songs,chatting with friends.Life is a process,ups and downs are everywhere.

29,Mar,2016

Too many things are hotly debated,lack of consensus is a big challenge for India's future and her people.When I just read some articles relating to India's development strategy,it is really disappointing to say so far academicians have not reached a common point in many economic,social fields.So,what the truth is?

28,Mar,2016

It seems that summer season is approaching us,hotness is present time and again.This "holi" holiday is exactly long enough so that I prefer to take classes.We have one and half month remained,hence,I should value these days left with my friends and classmates.It is very strange that my skin will respond to the weather naturally,but I have to overcome it this time.Today,we will restart our classes,it is more exciting considering I could get some experienced information from teachers and friends.

24,Mar,2016

If I could not criticize "food safety" in other universities,I would directly testify that food safety situation is worst of the worst in Banaras Hindu University.Today's lunch,I found out red color was floating above the surface of rice,it was holi red color powder.This placed international student's life safety below their short term narrowness.I would always bring this issue into Chinese readers,this is unbelievably bad governance in this university derived from the whole political system.If this thing happens in Chinese university,the warden in this hostel would be laid off,and the vice chancellor would be punished seriously.Respecting life in India is not much appreciated,this is really disappointing.

20,Mar,2016

Real estate price is in an historical high point,such booming bubble is unbelievably risky.All the panic atmosphere dates back to several times governments' intentional injection of liquidity to the highly policy oriented market.How can you imagine those cities like Beijing,Shanghai,Shenzhen,Guangzhou,etc have similar even higher ranges of property price in New York city

20,Mar,2016

It is very unfortunate to say that I have a problem regarding how to use the word of "the" properly.Sometimes,I need to reexamine what has been written,so that I could find out some minor mistakes made previously.When I pay much attention to the word,then I am not able to read a whole sentence efficiently.However,the good side is that I could overcome the problem mentioned before once I am more careful of it.

18,Mar,2016

US-Cuba relationship is quite uncertain,from an historical point of view.The communist party of Cuba has a slightly hostile relations with US,because USA is always desirous of subverting the rein.That old power supported by USA is removed out of Havana by the current authority in Cuba,then USA sanctioned and embargoed Cuba,finally,Soviet Union and all other communist bloc stood together to back up Havana.

Cuban government grants scholarships to Chinese students,especially from Havana university.In 2008,I planed to take this opportunity to study in Havana university(free tuition),but I could not speak Spanish well,moreover,I did not get mental support from my family.Therefore,I gave up it._

Air pollution in Chinese cities is not directly knowable,meaning that the smell of the air in Beijing is no difference from other places.When you go to Beijing by first time,you never feel air pollution just from your observation,but the serious level has to be checked by professional equipment.

17,Mar,2016

Today,I talked to Ulbea(may be wrong),Vivek,Satarupa about some common issues.We mainly focus on topics related to their dissertations which have to be finished in June,because they have shared their topics with me,and invited me to exchange some ideas.Vivek's cronyism in India which prevails in between capital classes and political classes has impressed me much,because the phenomenon is also quite widespread in China.Luckily,this days,anti-corruption campaign totally uproots the distorted collaboration between two connected classes in an unprecedented serious manner.Satarupa's child labor problem wakes me up,lacking in opportunities to get education,food and housing induces them to work at an early age.This social problem should be present in China,especially,I witnessed lots of young students dropped off to work for a factory one decade ago,despite a very low incidence of child labor currently.

When I walked out of Professor J.B.K's chamber,several classmates were waiting for me to celebrate Indian "holy festival" with them.I was worried that the colorful powders would be mixed with my clothes because of chemical function,I requested all of them to just put a little bit on my face.The result was that some of girls gently treated me,but energetic boys directly poured their powders towards me.I also did the same thing to them as feedback,then we hug each other,at the same time,said some goods words to each other.I enjoyed much about this festival,because it would make you forget all things at that moment.My style was over exaggerated,so,everyone I met would doubt what happened.Afterwards,I tried cleaning the red color,good news was that I removed it using running water.

Here,I wish all of you a happy and impressive "Holy festival".

16,Mar,2016

OMG,I wrote a lot,but the page was automatically updated,so,all words about 2000-3000 were lost.I just would like to say how bad it is,but fortunately,I still remember what has been written.

The main point is that Anshu Jain,former CEO of Deutsche bank from Rajasthan state succeeded,because of his openness to the fast-changing society.

India has great potentials due to lots of examples of high level CEOs,Entrepreneurs,Scientists,Economist,Artists, especially Engineers.

China is far behind India in the field of English language skill,this is why there are few important positions held by Chinese.India has strong cultures of debate,communication and discussions,so,India is more easily accredited by the world.

China and India has been emulating each other for thousands of years.Minimize possible skirmishes,conflicts and other discordant probability is gradually constructed on the basis of tight bilateral economic,cultural and political ties.

Two countries should strengthen the tie between youths.Bilateral exchange students are quite disappointing,everyone observes the other country through Western medias(true but discouraging).

English is India's advantage,China could not compete with India in language field in near future.In Chinese mega cities,like Shanghai,Shenzhen,English proficiency is very high and promising.Therefore,I wish India continue emphasizing the importance of English in a global society.Chinese government and all Chinese ordinaries have placed 200% weight on English learning this days,so,our future generation would be more integrated into a fast-changing environment.

I just believe in "social functionalism",hence,what we need to follow is those laws,rules made by the society for herself survival.If we hope to get a high paid job,then we need to have some advantages over others in the commercial society.

Sociology is taught in Hindi,it does not matter much.However,if we do not expand our freedom domain,then our capability is hurt.We can never express our thoughts to other non-natives,especially,during this days,mutual exchange of ideas should be never over emphasized.Here,I thank all of my classmates who speak out to ask Sir to teach us in English(global language).

Whether you are elites or not is not judged by only language skills,but if you do not overcome the language barrier,then it would be more difficult to be absorbed into elite club.Any society should have a type of culture of admiring elites(here,elite means those that create something new,or do something for better society),then the society would progress very smoothly and prosper well.

I am an ordinary man,but I have been telling me to follow up the world trend.

15,Mar,2016

Today,I saw one of my classmates came to our class with the help of her crutch.One month ago,I asked her friend about the reason why she was absent,I knew she got hurt in her leg.I really wish her recovery soon,because she was indeed helpful to us.Accident frequency is high in India,it is much more serious than China.Infrastructure construction should be accelerated in India.

15,Mar,2016

Indian economy should be compared with other country economies.I advise our department of economics should have a course called global economy.Without understanding global economy,how can the well-integrated Indian economy be analyzed.

Indian economy has been integrated much into the world economy,I really wonder if India will progress well in 2016 when global economy is looming.I personally wish India have a brighter and shinning picture in the world.If India rises fast and effectively,I could refute those uninformed Chinese ordinaries.

Snehil asked me about my future plan after June,2016,I responded to him that I should go back to China for work,or further learning.Actually,a good platform is crucial for a person to grow up,many things come from experience and touch with the society.What we learnt in class is indeed not directly useful for our future job,but it involves yourself in a way of thinking which is the gist of operation of the society.He said that he would prepare for public services,indeed,in a job scarce economy,every one needs to compete with other brilliant persons for a position.

Chinese society is full of problems and challenges,many aspects are far lagged behind from India.Common people are not able to pay the installation of real estate whose price is more expensive than New York.I have been desiring to do something to change our society better,but what I learn is that we have to equip ourselves with modern mindsets at first.It is common that countless people are complaining about their living conditions,but I advise them to give up this negative way of thinking.

A useful object is always useful whether it is in a good or bad situation.How can we be trained to be a useful product is essential for ourselves path of life.Jack Ma said that opportunities are hidden in a difficult era,so our existence and presence is to create environments to solve these problems facing us and our future generations.

Happiness is priceless,whatever we do is to gain happiness under some constraints.When we become rich,we need to donate our wealth to those disadvantaged people regardless of their nationality and ethnicity.Life is really short,if we do not take care of our time,suddenly,we come to end of our life.

Death is a dangerous topic for me.I have been afraid of death in front of me.I just feel painful when those dying creatures suffer from the pain.If I kill a dog,cat and bird,then I could not help crying for their innocence.However,we need to deal with death at a frequency of minute even second,hence,I need to make myself known that death is a natural process and dynamic.

I am scaring my uncertainty,because I do not predict what will happen to me tomorrow.I can only record today's life,gradually,I adapt myself to this type of uncertainty.I find out that I have a good quality of promise,whenever I make promise to the third party,I would do whatever I can to make it true.If possible,I promise myself that I would witness everyone around the world could expand their capabilities and freedom domains.

With regard to friendship,I most value this invisible relationship.Mutual trust is a type of undeniable asset for our life,politicians have some difficulties to make friendship with others because of distrust.Marriage is based on trust,strong morality is shared by Chinese and Indian civilization.If you do not trust me,you can never be my partner during our remaining life.

Life is lived in different ways,as an ordinary man,we need to believe in a term called fate to some degree.Our desires and wants should be reduced,because we are really greedy.Only when we face problem of sickness,we understand how useless those needs are.Pursuits are a kind of incentive for us to progress in a manner beneficial to the society(functionalism),but we need to equally emphasize others' pursuits.

When you feel unfair and frustrated,you should not give up your oath.Everything that pressures you is an asset which create chance for you to experience something beyond others' hands.It may be that as a student you have to take care of your family,but I suggest you that life not a disaster but an angel.

Everyone is not negligible,your existence is unique.Your ends is not judged by means,but your means should be justified by your moral philosophy.Life is nothing new,but life is full of meanings because of your action.

It may be biased,but according to my observation,lots of Indians are lack of self-confidence on their nation.

It should be attributed to the colonization under British Raj.Long time oppression by an external invader makes them used to admire Britain and her people.

British people are very practical and pragmatical,they just have interest on something beneficial for her own goodness.

This observation was from my experience during my first visit to Varanasi.I and a British girl resided in a same hotel,she asked me to accompany her to walk to a Ghat for a cultural event.Gradually,we missed our way to that place,then a boy warmly came to us.He frequently asked the blonde girl where you are from,you are from Britain,you are from England?

When the girl said that she was from England,the boy approached to her for further information.He promised her to help us to our destination,and talked lots of words to that girl about culture,England and others.That girl is not interested in what he said,but the boy never gave up himself conversation.

When we reached the Ghat mentioned above,he needed to sit near to the girl,and continued his conversation.Half an hour passed,we went back to the hotel,that girl said he talked too much and disliked his manner.

Compared with India,China has less tolerance to the rich.Especially,the gap between upper classes and lower classes has expanded,lots of Chinese people quite hate those children of the currently rich generation for showing off their luxurious life and laziness.As for the reason behind this phenomenon,I have lots of evidences to say it is because of inflexible social evolution system.Post-reform businessmen had worked very hard to accumulate their start-up capitals,but their children are too spoiled and not making good examples for others.It is also attributed to our East Asian culture under Confucianism philosophy,where everyone is encouraged to love each other,moreover,work hard to gain what you desire.Respect is constructed on the basis of intelligence and attitudes,otherwise,nobody would accept your social status.

It is good to know about Professor N.K Mishra's doubts on Chinese disappointing data statistic system.Around the world,too many experts including Chinese economists criticize Chinese national statistic system'

Last last week,I went to Professor JBK's chamber to tell him that I better appreciate Indian national statistic system.Because I found out that a simple indicator of CPI,Indian government has collected the data on basis of sector and residence,meaning CPI(industry and agriculture) and CPI(rural and urban),but Chinese government only releases a national CPI indicator.

Many different commissions are organized by the government to do some surveys in Indian economy and other fields, but it is quite scarce to exist in China. It is also obvious that India follows international statistic standards more quickly and easily, because of government's willingness and language advantage. China still lags far behind India in terms of following global uniform standards of industry classification and NAS.

Everyone should be confident of his future and his country's tomorrow.

Until now, I just understood how important for our youths it is to have a constructive approach to your country's reform and development.

If you always keep some negative opinions on your people, then it is of no use for them to change themselves in a positive direction.

If your voice is not listened to by others seriously, then your better choice is to develop yourself silently until your success demonstrates your reputation.

Even if I criticize too much my government, I also know lots of people like me do the same thing even more radically, it is useless for your people to have a better situation. Why not create something beneficial for the society and the world under the constraint of systems?

If I have a good platform to speak out, then I can get more attention. Understanding on the current affairs is not my competitive advantage, because everyone could have almost similar impression when he reads some articles and newspapers.

I feel disappointed to see those analytic articles related to economic situations or reform logic,because it seems that any non-economics laymen could get same results through data analysis with common sense.

Believe in me,platform is your advantage.Your growth to maturity is determined by your platform.No real truth inside economics is the real truth,it is just about debate and argument with a seemingly undeniable logic.The profession of economist in a market economy is more like an analyst,they use series of data to show their ideas to be correct.

I personally appreciate those academic economists,they do not care much about the current affairs.They devote much of time to their fundamental research,then the conclusion could be used by newspapers and Wikipedia as a tool to better understand the economy.

A non-economist person is difficult to get total factor productivity,because he does not know the production function much.It is much troublesome to make a politician to easily understand the value of a firm,because he does not know how to correctly value a firm.

News gives us fractional information,so we need to have a complete framework to understand the society.Actually,too many media workers are not qualified for editing and reporting some professional topics,because they do not have a good understandings on the background of those topics.

Still,many news workers had some predetermined opinions on some issues before they worked for the profession.It is quite clear for American reporters to objectively write many debatable topics on China,it is because they had been educated to accept some universal values since they were in childhood.Chinese reporters could not accept gay marriage,campus gunshot,early sex and so on which are common in US,so they do not write the reports in an objective way to tell Chinese readers.

For any news media which has an influential voice in editorial column,it should invite or recruit experts to analyze these topics.However,too many medias still ask those unqualified people with other field backgrounds to write this.Media should be more professional and specialized,I really think those students just studying in communications and journalism are unqualified for news occupation.A country has to develop many think-tanks to better inform their people,news media can be used as a road to present facts,only facts(if they do not have experts on some professional aspects).

Obviously,China is lack of think tanks,especially from non-government organizations.A society should be more and more dependent on think tanks to develop ideas and analyses,news media is of no use if they can not partner with professional experts.This is a big gap between China and more developed countries,considering our constraint of political system.

As a citizen,I have responsibility to do some contribution to our society.I should be more constructive,instead of destructive.Everything would be better and better,if we do not give up our dreams and moralities.Nobody wishes others to be worse,because we are basically equally important.

22,Feb,2016

India's Democracy is crying,also is dying from today's self-experience.Democracy is not afraid of her people,instead loves her people.

Closing our hostel gates,dispatching polices in hostel,countless security personals around the campus,barricades everywhere,police cars whistle frequently.

Protests should be controlled,but who said that foreign students would protest against Indian authority?Dalit class should not be discriminated,democracy is inclusive not someone's rights.

22,Feb,2016

If you develop yourself well,so your soft power is automatically expanded to other corners around the world;but if you can not gain soft power field,then you should allow your people to learn from other cultures.

Mind must be open enough to absorb other cultures,so you can have a different angle to see the world.If you are just conservative to preserve some outdated parts of culture,then you never progress smoothly.

Culture should not be regulated,free growth of culture is a basic law.I never witness any country dominates the culture field relying on government's intervention.

A society is only respected on the basis of embracing new phenomena.If you could not provide a base for your people to get their brain refreshed,then you should keep silence until you are physically,mentally strong enough.

If no freedom of choice,how possible to have freedom of thinking?

22,Feb,2016

Like this analysis about politics,I really think it is very subjective.Many non-scientists just depend on their personal feelings to observe the society,however,it is always not credible and trusted.

This is an obvious personal attack.For example,the very reason why India joined AIIB led by Chinese government is said to be Kowtowing to Chinese authority,how we can explain UK,France,Germany,Russia,Italy etc all proposed membership in AIIB.

An excellent analyst should collect series of proofs to show his readers that what he says is supported by proofs instead of personal feelings. This is why I have some reservations on Chinese official newspapers, because they just promote their slogans without consideration of basic logic and facts.

"About Chinese people"

I think more and more Chinese people are open to the dynamic world. China as the largest source of overseas tourists and international tourism expenditure is encouraging her people to compare different societies and learn what others are doing well. Any international economy policy discussion has to include Chinese policy makers automatically, because spill over effects from China side are felt deeply this days.

Wide and deep eye horizons are essential to our progress to a bright future. Our people cares much about global events, ranging from USA presidential election to Syrian civil war. We study global history after "New discoveries", also compare diverse old civilizations from our primary schools.

Due to language disadvantages for average Chinese people, countless translation works are done to promote foreign culture, perspectives and philosophies. From any angle of social structure, we highly believe that after the stage of replication and imitation, innovation and creativity would bring this country to a new stage.

Our good side is that we absorb all information from Western and Eastern parts, for example, we establish our understandings on a specific issue on the base of different sources. It is dangerous to just attribute your belief to a source.

Any one should get informed, because the society is changing too fast. You need to prepare enough for future challenges and uncertainties. Our people are inspired to get updated so that we would not be eliminated.

India has produced lots of high level of CEOs, they belong to elite classes through their non-stopping work. Of course, there are also impressive poor people still suffering from deprivation. We come to India to understand the real scenario, and learn what their elite class behave or do to succeed in their career. Our purpose is definitely not to learn non-elite classes, because they are even unable to get out of the trap of poverty. We need to have a comprehensive understanding on why they do not have opportunities to take a path to success.

If 1% elite class controls 99% social assets, then our intention is to know why those few people could overcome difficulties to become respected, instead to behave like what the remaining 99% masses behave. A nation with 1.2 billion population, the number of elite class should be at least 12 million. We would like to study what Reliance, Tata, Infosys and some other respected firms did, because a great number of experiences could be learnt from them.

Except that,Hinduism as a fourth largest religion could also give us happy life.We hope to have a happier and peaceful life,so we systematically study different religions,because we have strong motivation to happiness.

We just learn what benefits for us at present and future time,this is called pragmatism.We just learn how elite class becomes elite,not how non-elite class becomes non-elite in India,this is called rationality.

We predict India could exploit her potential to continue utilize her influence to humankind civilization and modernization.

This is also a response to those students who frequently ask me the same questions that why you came to India for study,and China has very good education institution.Students with science background always ask me these questions.

Jan,18,2016

Today,it was my first day for this semester class.I met all of my friends in our department.I still need to open my mind to absorb all ideas and thoughts from different countries whether they are situated far away from us or near to us.I have been criticizing my government for over excessive involvement in stock market activities,but I have to say I still have a great hope on our country and people.China has to humbly learn from all other countries in terms of lessons and experiences,we still have a great potential to upgrade our economy structure and social welfare system.Once innovation is embedded in our enterprises,we are able to compete with any country in the battlefield of advanced technologies.I am quite sure that China will be smoothly transformed into a democratic country like our brotherly Taiwan.During this economic recession,overcapacity of production has been entangled China to a large degree,our reform of supply side implemented will gradually stimulate all business activities.Financial markets have been a key sector in Chinese economy,even if we suffer from some difficulties these days,our policy makers are taking measures to overcome it.Every day,I am in the process of reform and opening up our society,I have been optimistic about our future.As an ordinary man,what we want to achieve is not immediately reachable,but we also need to insist on some standpoints,because we are the key participants in the process of transition.

Jan,18,2016

Afternoon,two students came to me for help related to his Chinese diploma,they said to me there would be a test of Chinese language.Two question papers brought out in the front of me,I need to help them translate and find solutions to those challenging questions.One of them suddenly talked about stock market performance in China,I had some interest on him for his curiosity.In order to encourage them to not give up this language,I present a truth that Japanese and Chinese languages are tightly connected,so you could understand both of them.I love some parts of Indian culture,because love is just love.I have been realizing that your birth place will not decide the level of understanding of the place,because language is just a tool for your to go through your society.Many Chinese people including myself is in confusion,because we need to depend on outsiders to increase our horizons on the land.

7,Dec,2015

Today,we finally ended our test of rural sociology.I am quite curious about every culture around the world,especially,those old civilizations.

India is a typical place full of myths.You do not know how her people behave unless you understand the culture which influenced her people.Nothing is vital compared with culture and religions,when I recalled what I got through my experience.

Rural community is my favorite place,pure mind and kind heart impress me much.I have been playing a role in shaping our peoples' views on modernity,it does not mean richness and enough materials guarantee a happy life.

Diseases,and pressures have been totally destroying urban peoples' life,because you are not conscious of the dangers around you.Of course, the trend is that urbanization will gradually shift a large number of people into urban areas.

I appreciate that profess teaching our sociology,because he is not showing off his materials aspects.We criticize much Chinese professors who just enjoy prestige and rich life without considering about disadvantageous groups in the society.

Next semester,we will learn urban sociology.From my own angle,I think all subjects under the framework of social science are interrelated and interconnected.We need to understand micro-level units in our society,like family,household,village and so on.Many social problems can not be solved only through one approach,it is the combination of all related methods becoming the best means to explore social reality.

This time,a student from Sikkim talked to me about lending his bicycle to me for my use.We just met each other two times due to common subject of rural sociology,but we discussed many things because of his more understandings on Chinese issues.He said to me that he has only one female friend in his class,I am doubtful why it is like this?He frankly presented something to me,I think Indian society should be more tolerant and open.Closeness and narrowness are harmful for any country.

About bicycle issues,I specially thank Ms Satarupa for her kind words and help.If I can repair that student's bicycle,then I will tell her about this.Of course,it it is not repairable,then I will ask her for help.

Wish all of my classmates in India to have a happy winter vocation.You are the best,so,happy life is waiting for you.

I have been wishing India could perform much better than China in the field of economic development. It will give pressures and lessons to Chinese government. Our economic reform is not fast enough to adapt our economy to changed dynamism, I am very worried that China may get middle income trap.

Central government is too selfish because of lots of interest groups, liberalization and openness must be maintained and pushed forward.

AIB and One belt one road, and RMB internationalization all are just symbolic actions, we need to humbly learn every country's lessons and experiences to have more innovation and free idea markets. China is a problem-oriented country, only problem presences will pressure governments to start their reform agendas.

Humbleness and carefulness should be our values of worker and politicians. Our government's ideology is actually a hindrance for overseas cooperation. Political transformation needs lots of commitments and ambitions, of course, President Xi could not have this type of courage and determination to reform political system. All great statesmen have to suffer from hardship before being memorized by their people.

04,Dec,2015

Today, I departed from my hostel at 7:30 AM, because I do not have my bicycle at hand. When I went to classroom, it was too early so that few students were sitting there.

When test time is coming, Professor M. Mishra kindly asked me about my bicycle's whereabouts. I said to him that there is no problem, I can handle it.

As to today's time series econometrics, I think it is most useful for finance studies. Because as we know, finance cares about co-movement and risk control. Series of theories were given to show how different investment strategies could be used for decision making. I have been fond of investment application in stock market, commodity market, currency market and other markets from 2008 year. Latest developments related to finance econometrics are helpful for finance innovation, I most appreciate the innovative ability of Wall Street. Finance is the most flexible and advance subject in any modern market economy.

Finance only cares about two points, one is return/yield, the other is risk. It is much similar to economic optimization problem. It means that the maximization of return under constrained risk or inverse direction. Financial market is the most competitive markets, because countless buyers and sellers have transaction without meeting each other. In a developed market, indirect finance is smaller than direct finance, because wealth management can get more returns.

If you ask me about the most dynamic subject in economics, I think it should be finance management. I do not have much interest on commercial banks, instead my focus is on investment banks. The whole asset management and capital movement should be functioned under those banks.

Financial products traders can win over the whole market if they can control their psychological factors. However, only few traders could control greediness and fear when these problems come. This is why success in this sector needs lots of work and practices. Of course, only interest is not sufficient for us to reach our goal, it needs luckiness and determinations.

Thanks a lot to Professor A.K.Gaur, he helped me at the beginning of admission. I also benefit much from his words out of classroom, he is humble and willing to be challenged. I respect him individually.

02,Dec,2015

Today, my bicycle finally leaves me for some other owners. I feel slightly sad, not because I think I can not ride it any more, so that it will be inconvenient for me in future, but I have some deep feelings on her. She is kind and good-temper girl, I and she experienced much from BHU campus to Gangas river. Every time, when I feel uncomfortable, I and she leave BHU campus to far far places in Varanasi. I brought headphone, played music, then I and she enjoyed the whole road to our destination. We have friendship from our mutual trust and love, I have treated her as a girl. I take care of her appearance, so, washing her body is my task and duty.

Now, she was forced to leave me, this is like slavery. That person who forces her to belong to him has no love, because he does not understand how love should be established on mutual free choices. Even if I can not meet her like before, I also miss her. Everything for me will be vital once I pour my feelings into it. I just wish you could live a better life under other person's care.

Although that person took my bicycle without telling me, I will not scold or scorn you. I can think how needy it is for you, so, you take such a risk. You also want to live a convenient life in campus, after all, BHU is too vast, but you are unable to purchase it with some reasons. I conjecture that it may be suitable for you in future, I hope you can gradually change your slightly immoral behavior, because some day, you may take some risks at the cost of you life.

As to today's exam, it is almost within everyone's expectation. Whatever we learnt can be summerized into only several pieces of paper. Actually, I prefer to application of statistical techniques, so, pure theory is not much emphasized. Econometrics is essentially a part of regression analysis, our objective of doing research in social science is factually finding out precise causal-effect relationship. Once we apply econometrics, it means that we start empirical analysis instead of other aspects. We all know that never a famous econometrician just applies mature econometrics models to explore causal-effect relationship. They are famous for their contribution to methodologies of econometrics analysis, so, they are essentially statistician and theory economists. Econometrics is very suitable for commercial use.

Professor B.V. Singh is a good educator for graduate level students, but not undergraduate students. The reason is that he leaves majority of works to students themselves, this will improve students ability to capture core logic behind theories. This time, I wrote slowly, I had to learn last time lessons. I respect him personally.

After exam, Professor M. Mishra asked me how about the test? I said to him it is ok, but I can not find out my bicycle. Then, he asked me to report this to dean of social science faculty. I met dean, he is quite kind and old professor, he gave me helpful suggestions. Even though I lost it, I still have some confidence it will be back to my front.

I registered this cast to chief police officer in BHU. No hope is worse than what I have done to gain hope. A Yemani student doing Phd in IAS carried me to this office, thank him. This is my today's scenario.

01, Dec, 2015

Recently, I suddenly got a cold. Even if it is not serious, but I also feel uncomfortable. For majority of people living in tropical places, it may be called winter season. However, it is like our fall and spring, the temperature is quite cozy.

As for today's applied microeconomics, it is useful for our understanding on basic rational behaviors of economic agents. Compared with Macroeconomics, microeconomics is more easy to be transformed into math form. I have been paying attentive to input and output analysis which is essential for me to analyze cause-effect relationship. Individuals can act and react to each other's behaviors, so, game theory is the basic form of marketing analysis.

We all know that, in microeconomics, functions are the best representations of essence of economics. Demand function, consumption function, expenditure function, cost function, production function, revenue function, profit function, engel function, utility function, inter-temporal function, etc are fundamental to economic process. When it comes to me, they all should not be taught much during undergraduate level, because micro-economics is common sense course.

Professor A.R. Prasad accompanied us to have a semester course, we also gained something from his works. Economics is of no use, if it is theory-focused subject. Economics is useful because it is experience-driven and practice-oriented subject. Every phenomenon can be analyzed from economic perspective, this is why I like economics framework too much.

Why you feel hungry? Because you have no energy, energy is from food. Why you have no food? Because you do not have money to purchase. Why you have no money? Because you do not find job and no compensation from government. Why you have no job? Because you are not educated and skilled, you can not match the market needs. Why you are not educated and skilled? Because you were poor in your childhood. Why you were poor in your childhood? Because your parents did not earn much money to support you. Why your parents did not earn much money? Because your parents also did not go to school, they were illiterate. Why your government does not give compulsory orders to force all his citizens to enter into school? Because our economy is not developing much, so, government has no much public fund to support this education system. Why your economy is not developing fast? Because our market, political, institutional, cultural systems all affect economic reform. Why your government can not change those systems? Because government is constrained to do this action. Why your government is constrained to take action to reform your systems? Because many self interest groups inside governments. Why there are so many interest groups? Because they are rational and selfish economic agents. Why they are rational and selfish agents? Because this is the basic assumption of economics. Why it should be the assumption of economics? Because this is from our observation in our daily life, then, we generalize it to apply for all cases. Actually, this is attributed to philosophy, like epistemology.

Like this type of question and logic, it will guide you to explore the essence, the reality. This is the beauty of economics framework.

27, Nov, 2015

Today, when I rode my bike to the old PG building for our research methodology and computer application in economics test, I came across a young monk who helped me ever. I found out that he was walking to his department for test, he must be late for his test, then I asked him to get on my bike to faculty of arts.

I was hurried to my own building, because I did not what my classroom would be. Last year, I encountered same problems, it was also professor N.K. Mishra who helped me to find my classroom. This time, I went to three classroom for enquiry, our Madam professor kindly helped me, of course, Satarupa helped me for this. Thank all of you.

When it comes to test content, I must say I still do not like this type of test. It has no basis to exam students' learning aptitudes. You only write and recite with teacher's notes, forced memory is of no use for later usage. I can memorize anything, because I am young, but I exactly do not enjoy writing words continuously for three hours. Frankly speaking, I have some reservations about learning style of research methodology, teachers should give student enough space and structure to think about different philosophies. If teachers ask students to write down every point of his notes, then it seems that he has given students standard answers.

Our professor Raman used too many courses to impart philosophical ideas about different schools. We benefit much from his responsible teachings, but I wish he could emphasize on practice and implementation. Concepts and ideas are only guidance for our life, but realization of our life depends on how we actually choose our course of action. Teachers should give students challenges and problems, then force students to find answers. This is the best way to get effective methods of learning. I still like Macroeconomics with statistical tools, thanks a lot to our respected professors and those students who guided me much.

Philosophy is my whole life subject,only it can give me happy and meaningful life.Without philosophy,life is foul and static,philosophy enlightens our life.

No more words to say about this.I give special thanks to Mr Jitendra and Mr Vivek with regards to applied microeconomics.Jitendra is a very punctual and responsible gentleman,if he promises you something,he definitely make his promise come true.He always invites me to his home in West UP to have a fun.Vivek is a very generous student,his mind is quite open,his interest on China is impressive.He is willing to share his good things with his friends,including ideas and opinions.Those two men deserve my friendship.

At the same time,I send special thanks to Ms Pragatti,Ms Shikha,Ms Swati three girls for their help to give me a copy of Research methodology.I hope Ms Mahima could return my copy of A.R.Prasad,you have kept my book for almost one week.Promise is more vital than money.

16,Oct,2015

Today,one of my classmates said to me that she had left MA for another training courses for primary school teachers.I suddenly got surprised why she would make this decision.

As a girl,she said that stable life needs more secure job status.After MA,she also needs to turn to job markets for opportunities.Why not grasp this chance at hand?She likes to teach small children as a teacher,also gets good salaries.

She is a very open and easygoing girl living in Varanasi.I have a very clear and good impression on her.She told me that she is not interested in research,hence,she planned to stop her MA at the end of MA courses.I understand her choice with her explanation,life is really about how you think of it.

From this point,I deeply feel that human capital investment in India is seriously wasted.If a department could not provide job opportunities to his students,he should not admit too many students.Opening courses should consider about market demand,if you teach students some out of dated knowledge,how can they join the firms easily?

I wish her good prospects in future,her name is Vausha(it may be wrong).She is a typical and impressive Indian girl.

Today,when professor A.R.Prasad talks about his model in his book,then he asks me whether I understand.I say that I do not have your materials,then he asks me why you do not get materials.I frankly speak to him,it is difficult to get it,because nobody is willing to share them with me(It is over-exaggerated,but I tried asking some of classmates,but I failed to get them).

16,Oct,2015

It is good for internationalization of Yuan, but as a citizen, I hope there are more reforms from politics to control on economy. I just trust liberalization plus good governance from visible hands. The world has many reservations about China's government, I also criticize the system, because education is to empower us to evaluate all things in a critical way instead of in narrow-minded manner.

20,Oct,2015

Inauguration ceremony of Department of Economics is going on. Many classmates who did not leave campus are attending this ceremony. All teachers are excited to welcome Vice-chancellor to open a new chapter in this department.

It is pitiful to say that all words are Hindi, I do not understand it, so, I give up taking any photo to tell my friends. Actually, Indians are good at English, so, state governments want to reserve some space for Hindi, so that they make speeches by Hindi more times. The situation is different, Chinese government forces people to learn English, because English is not frequently used in our daily life.

It is not about language, for me, culture and tradition should be founded on the basis of daily language, but working and public language should follow global trend.

Wish department to be better and better, and teachers are more professional and diligent. More and more foreign students join in the expansion process of department of Economics. Wish China and India could develop faster and faster hand in hand, cultural ties are tighter and tighter, business activities are more prosperous.

11,Oct,2015

Wish all of my dear friends to have a wonderful Diwali night! Thank you Satarupa for your carefully prepared gifts for me, especially, that small piece of note. Please help me express my gratitude to Mr RISHABH, it is impressive to have a worship in the context of Hinduism. I also need to make an apology for my carelessness to not get your calling, so that it worries much. Crackers could maintain a heavy festival atmosphere, at the same time, we should take care of our ears in our young periods. Diwali is as grand as our Spring festival, all members are unified together to talk, hug, embrace. An ethnic with deep religious belief is always happier than those without, I have to my next generations to follow some sincere super natural belief for self salvation.

9,Oct,2015

Snehil, is one of my classmate. He is from Varanasi, and his parents are educating students. In China, students have obligations to respect teachers, so, I especially thank my high school teacher for his work for me.

Snehil, is very sincere student in my impression. He takes my questions or problems very seriously every time. I can trust him more than some funny students. He can do something for you with dedication.

Snehil should have a bright career future and happy family from my perspective. Trust is something beyond culture and conventions. Of course, all my classmates are very friendly to me, tell me many things about India and their stories.

I have been in India for a long period of time, I still face many internal mind issues. I can not face death or any other accidents, because I feel extremely sad to separate from those relatives and innocent people. I want inner peace and calmness forever, I get a lot from this land. I thank Ganges river and sacred atmosphere for me to rethink about life and pursuit.

Wish all of you to enjoy biggest festival---Diwali, I also celebrate with local people near Ganges river. I have a dream, during my whole life, I want to jump into Ganges river to swim.

05,Sep,2015-24,Sep,2015

1. When I check the land system in rural India, I have to say that Indian land system is a big failure for her large number of rural dwellers. Land reform after independence was not radically implemented on the basis of fair redistribution of existing land holdings, so that, many sticky problems get her rural villagers trapped in a vicious trap. Sometimes, I must think about whether so called inefficient democracy process is effective to take after those untouchables and bounded farmers. Supposing the central government initiated a serious redistribution plan on land after independence, hence, government strictly punished those cunning and greedy landlords who violated legislation, then the current scenario would be much better and optimistic for disadvantageous villagers.

2. Actually, for foreigners, it is better not to have a deep understanding on Caste system specific to India. It is only because that under an unknown background, everyone from India is no different from others.

There was a nice conversation with Mr Sneigh about rural society in India, I have to admit that he is really sincere and frank to others. He said that he has one more brother excluding several sisters, and both of his parents are teachers. However, he has a deep feeling on his land about 10 hectares, his family hires labors to work for his land. He has a big joint family with about 60 members living together, naturally, there are numbers of rooms holding them. I said to him how they can cook such amount of food provided to members of the joint family, he replied that his mother and sisters all cook collectively to prepare food for them. Unsurprisingly, he said that all budget affairs are controlled by his mother instead of his father, even if his father is responsible for family affairs. Intercaste marriage should not be allowed, hence, he does not have a plan to get marriage with a girl from other castes.

In first class, Professor Raman suddenly jumped his description of his experience of visiting China during his comparative study on village non-agriculture economic activities between India and China. He said that Beijing and Shanghai are really really modern and developed, unexpectedly, when he visited some villages in China to get reality through observation and interaction with locals, he never thought how a village could be so modern. In that village, there are almost all facilities needed by residents, e.g, shopping mall, entertainment facilities, hotels and so on. However, he said one more sentence that majority of Chinese people do not like Indians, but on the street, too many warm people around him asked with smile, "are you Indian?" "are you India?", at this time, he felt happy and impressive.

I replied to him, there are many image projects constructed by local governments to show off their achievements when upper level leaders come to them to evaluate their accomplishments. I also said that Chinese people are interested in Hindu valley civilization, but Chinese government often spreads some misunderstandings to his people to incur narrow minded nationalism. As for modernity of Chinese cities, I humbly and frankly speak that majority of Chinese cities have the qualification to be called modern cities, but Chinese government has not done enough to support his people. Professor Raman is appreciated, he and NK Mishra did some researches on Chinese development model. It is no doubt that he often refers to socialism and government dominance in the market economy

3. Life should be an adventurous existence, otherwise, it would wither sooner or later. I come to India, because I partially bet my future on India's economic tie with China, this is also risky. One of my classmate opted Chinese as his diploma course next two years, this is also a risky business even if he said he had no choice but to take Chinese. Anyway, I like this type of life, it is worthy of my action.

4. All things related to individual behavior should be analyzed on the basis of "his culture". If we do not understand his culture, then we are unable to evaluate his action in a reasonable way.

Every one always treats his own culture to be the best one, hence, he subconsciously behaves himself under his culture framework. Religion is no exception, in contrast, religion is more mutually exclusive. If you ask different religious devotees, they always explain you that his religion is enlightening you the universal truth.

For our atheists, nothing is more powerful than your own will. From those cases mentioned above, we get some ideas that "culture relativism" is needed to critically judge individualistic behavior. Globalization is a big threat for diverse cultures, this arouses the awareness of local ideologies, therefore, conflicts start to challenge over-inflated globalization.

In a small community, the organization structure is like a pyramid; likewise, in a global world, pyramid-shaped social structure wants to govern all parts of cultures. After the whole process of natural elimination of cultures, the only one of them could be survived. These days, Western cultures dominate in the global village, many cultures are forced to surrender, but some of them have to continue competing even fighting with the mainstream cultures.

This is the root of conflict?

5. Today, I attended sociology class in New PG building. I admire that professor teaching rural sociology for students outside sociology department, even if I really understood nothing due to language difficulties. He is not addicted to dresses and phone brand, if he is staying outside campus, it is likely that nobody knows he is a professor, but he is full of experience and theories thanks to his long-time teaching. A real professor has no time to care about which phone is best, which dress is most expensive, what he focus on is his research objectives. He uses that out of date Nokia phone, but it does not affect his image in my mind in a negative manner.

To the contrary, many so-called teachers spend too much time on material stuff, they purchase the newest smartphone, fashionable dresses, luxurious furniture and so on, but they forget their identities of teachers. This problem is much serious in my home land, many professors wear beautiful suits, but some of them do not equip themselves enough insights into a subject. Anyway, I am not qualified for research, it is not my intention to become a researcher, but I really appreciate some of Indian teachers.

6. Today, I coincidentally talked to one of my classmates about Indian society to confirm some info related to Indian social issues. Gradually, I find that I am dedicated to Indian society aspects. You can never observe some phenomena in other countries like in India.

We discussed about sticky social issues facing India, caste system, sanskritization, marriage, dominant caste, dalit and advasis, literacy, child labor, human trafficking, bondage labor, panchayate system, health system, PDS, Rural employment act, land distribution, communalism, regionalism, caste-based business, linguistic based state, state nation and nation state framework, crime, slavery, domestic violence, women social status, scheduled castes and tribes, OBC, Zamindari system, Jajmani system, market in village, social inequality and exclusion, discrimination against differently abled, women, lower caste people, woman safety, cultural diversity, communism and Naxalite, and so on.

These problems exist in almost every country, just to a varying degree. China has lots of social problems, but it is slightly different from India. Comparison between different objects, then we get insights about the reality of the society.

7. Today, I went to boys hostel with the invitation of one of my classmates. Unexpectedly, I found out that there is a serious problem in Economics department. One of my junior said that he is not interested in research of economics, the reason why he joins BHU is that he could get enough space to prepare for public service exam at a lowest cost. Once he passes the exam, then he would leave department for that public sector position. He said that if he could not succeed in getting a seat in public service department, then his parents would pressure him too much. If he joined a university for study, his parents would not give him pressures during his study.

I can not judge whether it is good or bad, but it is just a reflection of job prospects for young graduates. Up to this moment, I really understand why India produces the largest number of engineer graduates annually. Manufacture is never over emphasized in a transition country.

8.1. For me, market activities are more attractive compared to academic activities. Once I get some insights on life and death, I still want myself to be socialized in a broader ozone. To serve society can take various means, market is more challenging and vivid than university. I plan to work for bank supervisory body or security supervisory body in future. The best choice is to engage myself to investment banks to fight with the most brutal group, like Wall street.

8.2. Cheng Boming is the CEO of the largest brokerage company--CITIC in China, he is my most senior from the same finance department, but he was under investigation due to his insider trading. This reflects some big issues related to financial markets, it is far away from maturity.

9. At this time, I sense that theoretical research is really scaring. When I recall how frustrated I was so long as I picked up a top level Chinese Economics journal to have a look during my undergraduate. There are too many seemingly sophisticated formulas and models, however carefully reading it, I could not understand it at all.

When you had this type of terror to face a problematic case during your childhood, then it is quite challenging to overcome it in your adulthood. When I read English journals, I found out that their researches are aimed at solving some specific problems around them. It is not compulsory to apply too too complex formula and models to your article, sometimes, it is likely that analysis of data is sufficient to proof your hypothesis.

It is a piece of good news for a so depressed student, Chinese university hurt me too much owing to their deliberate promotion of useless logic. Before this, I never considered those paper compiled from different sources to be called "research", and I ignore it. However, up to now, I get some inspired from Indian scholars. What can called research is that they could help you find some facts or proof some your hypotheses using any possible means. Whether it is chart, graph, table, figure and so on, the main purpose is to show others that your conclusion is reliable and credible.

For example, I would like to understand the impact of literacy rate on health index. The procedure does not command a lot of complicated models and formulas, on the contrary, reading others' articles, then collecting data, finally, analyzing data. The single principle is to prove that your conclusion is based on careful analysis of data and other materials.

The intention of research is to get insight from your observation and intuition, under it, we could use any possible techniques to persuade readers into believing in us. Sometimes, even if there is no any data list, we just compile whatever others have already written before, it is also qualified to be named a research on the condition that some genuine contributions to existing fields.

I checked some Phd theses submitted by Indian students, finding that their topics are largely related to a specific region. They took a district or state as their study field, then their objectives are to solve some detailing problems within this region. Because very few studies about this topic have been done, hence, their experiments are really useful for newcomers to further explore the facts. Their data are almost primary, doing survey, interview, questionnaire, participatory observation are their approaches to data collection.

In my mind, I have been conservatively insisting that all research topics should be international affairs, at least national affairs. For state affairs, I am worried that data resources are not sufficient enough for analysis, so, I neglect many interesting facts relevant to my community, district and city.

Indian sociologists observed village phenomena for a long time, they wrote books to summarize what they experienced through this process. Many famous but genuine points are also generalized, like Sanskritisation, Dominant Castes, Caste-based business, marriage, etc.

Amartya Sen, contributed much to welfare economics, because he is really addicted to explanation of starvation, deprivation, poverty, freedom, capability, function, being and doing thanks to his painful experience in his childhood. He did not apply those advanced models and formulas to prove his points, in contrast, his articles and books are influenced by his philosophical perspective.

When I have some ideas about this, I am relieved.

10. I have been chanting that culture is always relative, when we draw any conclusion on others, we have to base our judgement on his culture and context.

Everyone always thinks his own culture is the best one among all streams of cultures, ask why? He replies to you because of many reasons. If you ask a Buddhist whether Buddhism is good or not, he would definitely place his belief in a superior position without hesitation; If you ask a Muslim about his religion, he also responds his religion is absolutely universal true; Likewise, when a Christian is interviewed to talk about his belief, he is quite confident that the church is the only way to our reality.

For different places, what can be called kindness is also diverse. Especially, when we come to freedom term, actually, we should not set individuality as the foundation of freedom. In Western philosophy, first thing is individual freedom, second thing is just nation-state, therefore, individual freedom is above state freedom. They debate that state is a social contract among a nation's people, without people's agreement, state would be baseless. Naturally, Western perspective would not allow state to interfere into personal affairs.

This logic has been treated as a gold law of political philosophy. However, many problems arise due to emphasis on individual freedom, and these problems have seriously contradicted the starting point. Our real society is like a pyramid, so, hierarchy is endogenous part of the system. In a scarce society, there are winners and losers, and winners get all. Unfairness caused by individuality structure leads to a lot of non-observable oppression and exploitation among his people. As you understand, oppression and exploitation is loss of freedom. At this time, individual freedom is not harmed by state instead by free people. What is implication is that any society pursuing personal freedom always sacrifices a part of his people's freedom to maximize other small part of people.

This is a root cause for ideal Marxism to influence the world, because the reality is no freedom for the whole people in a society full of beliefs of individuality. Unfortunately, Communism is too far to be implemented, it directly brings authoritarian style leadership to those communist controlled nations where individual freedom is largely exploited and oppressed by state. It means that whatever social system we are in, our freedom is never fairly distributed. Universal truth may be that normal distribution of all things is highly possible. Despite this fact, some states have a standardized normal distribution of freedom, but other states have skewed or piked distribution of freedom.

Those case mentioned above is not my theme. I would like to show that how different people with diverse contexts understand some so-called universal value. You may say this is moral philosophy, and morality is never based on facts, so, it is meaningless to discuss about this. Actually, whether you observe or not in your life, when a student from a family that likes to control a child's action any time, you find his view on freedom is opposite to majority of you.

A child used to be directed by his parents during his childhood, whatever he is going to do, he would subconsciously consider to get permission from his parents. Once he forgets to counsel this to his parents, what waits for him is strict scold and beating. After a period of time, he has been institutionalized or educated to take action only after having permission, otherwise, he feels extremely uncomfortable and pitiful. Gradually, he is not willing to make any personal decision, all things would firstly be referred to his parents with his own wish. Up to the moment, while asked about freedom, he would confess to you that freedom means doing everything under guidance of his parents. Provided that you question him why he is used to being submissive your parents, surprisingly, you would be told that it seems that he has a strong sense of loss of freedom without parents' involvement.

This is why we often make mistakes with regard to this cultural relativism. If you do not analyze a person's cultural contexts,we are unable to definitely judge his morality and mindset.Language also plays an important role to affect human beings' ways of thinking.

How sad!Today ,just now,I heard about that Teacher day was celebrated by our department.I just wonder why there is no any info related to this event sent to our email.

Anything is happening in our department,I am always the last one to get informed.It may be my personal problem,but it should be more ascribed to the collapsed information network in this department.

Among those teachers,obviously,Professor Raman,and M Mishra are the most appreciated faculties in terms of spreading information.This is the basic responsibility to undertake,this should be improved more or less in Economics department.After all,all professors teach that information is playing a fundamental role in efficiently allocating scarce resources,why some teachers do not follow this universal law.

Last semester,Satarupa helped me much,so that I could stay up with latest development in our class.This semester would be tough enough,no way to escape it,but to accept it and face it.

We young generations could explore the truth of history taken place,so,it is a good sign for political progress.After WWII,Japan,Korea,Taiwan all were poor countries,but East Asia really created history in terms of social development.We must remember that Japan lent low interest loans to China for project constructions,there were large amount of economic aid granted to China from Japan.Now days,China has some good economic progress,the incumbent government intentionally distorts the history and nurture nationalism among those uninformed people.Japan's security bill was changed or not,it is their choice,we should not impose historical tragedies on Japan to express our anger.Once you visit Japan,you would find out that Japanese and us share too many commonalities dated back to several thousands ago.We must admit that Chinese government should not distract our people's attentions from political reform through military parade or other international issues.Economic affairs have been heatedly debated because of over intervention over private fields and overburden on cooperates and households.Without political reform,economic slowdown would shake social structure,we do not hope middle income trap would come to us.

Frankly speaking,Western media should be respected and appreciated including Indian media,they expose most serious issues to readers.However,we also have some reservations that they just continuously report somethings different from what they experienced in their own countries,then when we consider about Syrian situation and Yemen situation,we really hated these types of so-called media neutrality.From Western media,almost all news related to China are negative and pessimistic,I am doubtful why there should be like this.Once China collapsed,then we also understand that those powerful countries would start their exploitation.This world is never perfect and has standard uniform systems,I just recall what premier Zhou Enlai said that every country should pursue common interests based on tolerance of differences.

From self interest perspective,every one wants to retain the absolute power to become a permanent empire,but history tells us that history will never remember those leaders pursuing self interest at the cost of their people.Nobel peace prize gives Chinese dissidents encouragement,they persist in taking action to change China's political process even if they are threatened to death.Sometimes,we also need to understand that state capitalism in China,Singapore,it is much helpful for economic rapid progress compared with those low-efficient market capitalism.

Anyway,We look forward to having smooth transition.We wish every one around the world make their dream come true.No conflict and war and terrorism.

Robert Shiller professor is an expert in behavioural finance field,I ever read his book "Irrational prosperity" focusing on asset bubbles and real estate bubbles problem in USA.His finance theory course has been translated into Chinese language video sharing platform for several years,hence,we enjoyed his course online several years ago.

He was ever invited to China to talk about Chinese economy,especially,property market in China,due to his authority in Case-Shiller Index.In 2013 year,Nobel prize in Economics was granted to three financial economists including him,because Chinese universities always invite those Nobel laureates to take a lecture,hence,we are slightly familiar with American Economists.

Actually,Chinese professor Chen Zhiwu is Shiller's colleague,Professor Chen is finance teacher in Yale,he also co-founded a hedge fund-Zebra capital management which applies many models to reduce market risk getting returns.This is professor Chen's Page:<http://som.yale.edu/Zhiwu-Chen> He is quite influential in China due to his attention paid to China's transitional economy,and his several books talking about some basic logic behind finance and insurance.

My favorite economist is the most influential Hongkong Economist-Steven N S Cheung,he influenced too many young economy scholars after 1978 reform policy of China.This is a part of reason why New institutional school of Economics is quite popular among Chinese academicians,such as,Douglass North,Ronald Coase,Oliver Williamson,Armen Alchian,Harold Demsetz are most welcomed Economists in China,thanks to their research related to property right,institution factor,transaction cost is closer to China's economic reform.

Today, I and another one classmate(a kind girl) went to department of political science to counsel our time table of elective paper. I suddenly felt that she is really kind and friendly due to his sincerity and frankly attitudes, even if she said that so she has some problems related to English language. She directly said to me that she had 4 sisters, and wished to get a seat of PHD under professor M Mishra, so she tried to pass through a high level Net test, so that she could get sponsored by government fund at the total amount of monthly 25000 Rupees. She is sincere to answer your question, open to us to share something interesting.

It is good experience for me to meet that professor who would become the teacher of the elective paper, he asked me about myself, and why I come into BHU and so on in English. I momentarily found out that he placed importance on China, because of his teaching of international relation. However, when he told us that our time table is overlapping with the course schedule, it seem that I have to choose something new.

At this time, I met professor M Mishra, he always smiles. He is impressive.

We know there are many problems in Xinjiang, it may be our government's relentless oppression on Muslims.

However, when we recall what happened to our Xizang(Tibet) people even if they faced same problems related to religions.

As a Chinese citizen, we all are angry with bombing terror attack in Thailand(if it is true), if it is undertaken by some groups from Xinjiang, then it is unpardonable.

Our government has to take serious measures to curb such offensive actions, we need to remove them totally. Tibetans are willing to immolate themselves to express their dissatisfaction over government's policies, but Xinjiang Muslims are too radical, too brutal, they always make terror attacks towards innocent people to find an outlet for anger.

Those radical and extremist Uighurs in Xinjiang should understand that Chinese powerful soldiers could wholly remove all of you at any time. Governments give you much fiscal budget transfer to improve your welfare, if you are not satisfied with religious policies, why not learn what Tibetans do?

I appreciate Tibetan's spiritual tolerance, Xinjiag could never be separated to have a sovereign status(East Turkestan). If you revenge undemocratic government through killings of innocent

Chinese,then we are all not scared of you,instead we need to remove those terrorists and separatists at any cost.

We all have a similar situation in terms of democracy status in China,but we do not kill others to send a signal to government for his policy change.It is because we are civilized and educated,we know that democratic progress needs a period of time,it may take several generations to have a more religion-tolerant social system.

Killing innocent individuals is not pardonable ,never,never.If you do it,we have to remove you wholly.Those people want to declare Xinjiang's independence from China,you may imagine once Taiwan declares independence,all pre-installed missiles and weapons would completely destroy Taiwan from any direction.

19,Aug,2015

These days,all bad news .Let us talk about some inspiring tomorrow about China.

If we are more optimistic, then provided that China could continue keeping growth rate of annual 7% for next 10 years,China could overtake USA to become the largest economy in terms of nominal GDP(Given growth rate of USA annually at 2%).If China has enough competitive advantages on created and manufactured goods,then we consider about possible large proportional appreciation of Chinese RMB,then China could surpass USA with shorter time.We understand

PPP GDP is not a good indicator for international comparison of economy power,after all,less developed countries could not bear much high cost of goods and services.For instance,India has third largest economy in terms of PPP GDP,but we should understand Indian average price level is much lower than USA.A same person in USA with his annual income comes to India,he could buy much more products in India,compared to his purchasing power in USA.Hence,it is meaningless to say China is the largest economy on the basis of PPP GDP,Chinese people could not tolerate so expensive price level as it is in USA.

Once Chinese Yuan becomes a member of IMF SDR in near future,then internationalized RMB would be widely used in international trade settlements and offshore bond issues.Currently,many central banks around the world have established bilateral currency swap ties with Chinese central bank in order to directly used RMB to make payment of deficits of current account and capital account.In future,in global borrowing and lending practices,Chinese firms could directly use RMB to their counterparts,it means less risk of foreign exchange.The condition for more holding of RMB is that central bank of China should maintain RMB's internal and external value.

Happy Independence day for all Indians on 15th,Aug,2015.

India will never be neglected,without India,the world is not fact.Why?Civilization of Hinduism is too widely spread especially in South Eastern Asia. Our people get deep influence of Buddhism that originated from Nepal and India.

Liking India is on the basis of culture and its philosophy.Her people have strong resistance to outer forces.Her people have sacrificed too much under different invaders.Several times starvation in history caused shocking number of deaths.However,even if they are beggars,they enjoy their situations.It makes you believe that life is a pure status of mood.

Really want to learn comprehensively Indian philosophy,especially,her explanation to life,death,etc.

These days,I do not update this,it is because of my time spent on Chinese dairies.

We all know that our society is much complicated,like China,every day,many new policies come to our people,we need to quickly capture the core points on different social issues.

We need to understand our economy problems,then we need to investigate how can we reform some tough barriers,so that our country can improve much.

I have been committing myself on social security programs.I need to have Western Europe-style welfare system to protect our people from any potential risks.National health care has been a warm topic in China,we know our government has done much to cover all citizens from rural areas to urban areas,but our public hospitals are still rigid to face a customer-oriented health market.Our government has been intervening in our society too much,it directly affects our transaction cost of economy.When our local government has a huge outstanding debt(which is equal to our all government annual fiscal revenue),central government is still manipulating our financial system trough stated own banks and finance ministry,central bank to finance these projects which are on the process of construction.All in all,too much too much.

Our people are more and more accustomed to market economy,this is a good sign for our future.Economy progress must be on the basis of democracy and rule of law. CPC is a problematic machine to operate this society,because it is above the law even constitution.Actually,we are free to talk about politics,but we are not allowed to talk about something that is a threat to the government.

Around the world,I do not find much difference among our people.We all share the same common values.I really dream that every one can have a prosperous and happy life around the world,there would be no conflict and war.There is no dominant power,we have almost same political system,our economy is strong enough.

Reading history is an approach to our understandings of the world.I have been looking forward to predict the society trend. However, it is a long process to go. I bought a world map, every day, I stare at it, I analyse why the world is like this.

Material is vital for our life, but if I can die for my dream, I feel happy. India needs more progress, and more inclusive policies to save some marginalized people, when I stayed in Delhi, I observed two sides along a same street, one side is white collar bankers, fund managers, politicians; but the other side is undernourished beggars, still moaning slowly. The society is not fair even if it is free to choose.

What is my dream? I dream of working for Wall Street, then earned money could be given to some unlucky people. What is life? Life is uncertain.

Due to demographic change in China, our government is considering about relaxing the "one child policy" which was implemented in 1980s in order to prevent over inflated population.

Now days, our government has reformed this "one child policy" with expertise advice. After late 2013 announcement, if one of your parents has no siblings, then government allows your parents to have two children. One more thing is that our government would decide whether it is necessary to totally relax this condition of "separate two child policy" in 2015, once decided, then all couples would be allowed to have two children without any additional conditions.

The following links would be beneficial for your comparison among different countries in terms of population growth rate, emigration/immigration, population at the age of 60+, age dependency ratio, labor force and so on.

0. <http://data.stats.gov.cn/english/easyquery.htm?cn=C01> (National Statistics Bureau)

1. <http://www.worldometers.info/world-population/population-by-country/>

2. <http://data.worldbank.org/indicator/AN.SP.POP.DPND>

3. <http://data.worldbank.org/indicator/SL.TLF.TOTL.IN>

You can make comparison with India, then you would find that Chinese population median age is much higher than India (35.7 to 26.6), our share of population at the age of 60+ is much higher than Indian (14% to 9%). Like our father and mother generation, that is baby booming time, they all have many siblings, but they are aging to 60 years old, hence, our workforce would be up to peak before 2020, then it would decline much. From salaries scale, we also can find some signal of lacking of labors in China, salaries can only be shaped on the basis of productivity and demand-supply, increase in our average salaries is partially explained by productivity improvement, the remaining part should be ascribed to low supply of labor.

However, our urbanization rate is just 53%, which is much lower than other developed countries, so, we have much potential of economy growth through extensive urbanization which would encourage farmers to immigrate into urban areas, hence, property markets, public facility investment, services sectors and even those overcapacity sectors would have large space for growing.

With regard to the old,our government initiated series of policies to provide social securities,pension fund improved much(before,our model was pay as you go,even some public employed directly got retirement without paying one rupee during their working for government),you may check this link which gives you a glance at different social security programs among countries:<http://www.ssa.gov/policy/docs/progdesc/ssptw/index.html>

About health care in China,now-days,every citizen in China can get access to our two basic health care insurances:one is basic health insurance for urban workers ,second is basic health insurance for rural and urban dwellers,of course,many provinces still divide basic health insurance between rural dwellers and urban dwellers,in rural areas,it is new rural cooperative medical insurance.Every citizen can get reimbursement at the average rate of 50-60%, after this first reimbursement,then we have catastrophic diseases insurance which can again reimburse 50% fees to patients,furthermore,we have medical aid to those poor people.

Anyway,it would take a long process to construct satisfactory system.I wish it be helpful for your understanding on China a little bit more.

India has a long way to real market economy.

All shops even banks start their operations at 10:00 -11:00 o'clock,but they close their doors at very early time.

I do not trust much our Hostel Mess,because they do not take much responsibility of us when we get any problems with food provided by them.Many times,in food,there are some small stones,insects,hair and so on,they employ one child to wash all plates,but the boy does not wash them well.

In terms of food quality,I can frankly say that they always purchase those low level fish,vegetables,rice etc.They use newspapers to cover food,when I witness this scenario,I hardly vomit to death.I really do not believe hands are naturally without bacteria,so when they use hands to hold old money,then they continue using them to cook food for you,Oh,my god,it is really unacceptable.

Generally speaking,we do not believe in communist party's actions,because nobody supervises them at all;However,when it comes to democratic India,I think the most unreliable agent is government,because history tells us that when many people are killed in an accident,no officials get sacked.

This is why I do not drink so-called purified water, because disease comes chronically. When you know that water comes from dirty Ganges river in which many dead bodies are decomposed, you really feel disgusted.

When some shopkeepers use second-hand bottle to contain 1 ML tapping water, then they continue selling this as mineral water at the cost of 20 Rupees, I consider it is unpardonable.

This is just a corner of a big iceberg which I experienced in India.

Chinese greedy people are also behaving badly, I just want to beat them to death when I meet this case.

It is high time I write down some personal feelings about Dynamic Macroeconomics. Today, I feel much better because I went to health centre for treatment of affected skin.

On that day of test of Statistics, I hardly bore the pain caused by the affected part on my forehead. I could not sleep, regardless to say, think about something well. It just gives me deadly painful feelings in my brain.

Today, Dynamic Macroeconomics should be within our expectation, but time management is bad. I did not finish the last question, so many procedures are omitted intentionally, then I directly got answers. If this type of behavior happens in Chinese universities, then it is no problem, because all professors are result-oriented. If your result is correct, they will check your procedures carefully; on the contrary, once your result is wrong, it is pitiful that your procedures would be less likely to be checked.

Actually, Dynamic Macroeconomics is all related to growth of economy. What factors have vital impact on economic growth? How they have effect on economic growth? How government uses some deliberate policies to guide economy into equilibrium? Many topics are covered.

We all know that capital derived from saving or FDI is too essential for economic growth, so governments in developing countries encourage households and firms to save large part of income for future investment. India's interest rate is quite attractive, it is almost two times more than China's interest rate. However, China's saving rate like other Eastern Asian countries, is near to 50%, that is quite high. From this point, Indian firms would have more difficulties to finance their projects through indirect finance. FDI is a big stimulus for developing countries and developed countries, China indeed has largest FDI these years around the world, due to expansive consuming market. India has many barriers to attract FDI thanks to its disadvantages in terms of land use, government administration, worker skills, infrastructures. However, incumbent PM of India is proactive to promote market friendly environment in India, it will be beneficial for India and Indian people. Sometimes, democracy will be an obstacle for economic development.

Every one knows how important R&D in a nation is. Currently, almost every new products are innovated by developed countries with the help of government. Hence, they always enjoy long-term patent protection, earning large amounts of profit. As a developing nation, we should firstly imitate the advanced technology, then we improve it to better our society. When it comes to this field, I have to accept that Chinese companies have the strongest capabilities around the world to do this. As you know, this is not enough, we need to cooperate to create something new instead of simple copy, improvement.

Around the world, income inequality is rising instead of vanishing, rich countries are still rich, poor countries are still poor. Why? It is all connected to unfair international trade rule, financial rule, economic rule and so on. Developing countries should gather together to dig a hole in the existing international rule, even destroy it. I really hate some governments' actions. They implement unfair policies on other countries to exploit their people, then they announce they would grant a package of aids to these exploited countries.

India has many advantages, too many young people, highly accepted IT and Pharmacy, Outsource, Calling centre, Aerospace, Financial services, etc. I look forward to witnessing a great change in India to increase well being to her people.

When it is hot, it will be hard for me to live well.

Today, I think the questions are quite confusing, especially, the last one question, "Calculate rank coefficient of correlation", when it tells me calculate Spearman's rank correlation coefficient, then with the given numbers, only in one minute every one could calculate two small questions. However, because it does not mention Spearman name, so that I have been confused about this, and more, the paper should note what the meaning of all signs at least one time in the front page.

We learnt statistics using different signs to stand for special meanings, but the whole paper only gives us r , b_{xy} , and so on, these are quite misled when we have different understandings on them. From this point of view, this paper does not have tight logic. This type of case has not happened in my memory, but I experienced one time.

So far, I have not understood what the meaning of internal estimation, it is really strange.

Anyway, I just wish I could pass this subject considering my mistake on last question, what is the meaning of ratio of regression, I have never heard about this in English.

Writing down is to record today's track. Stop it, I feel really hungry. Recently, I sleep on the top floor every night, then it is highly cool.

11,May,2015

Firstly,make an apology to Satarupa for not say Bye to her,when I talked to Professor Raman for Ramsay Model PPT.

Gradually,India has been transformed from moderate Summer to Extremely hot summer.Yesterday,I did not sleep well due to unbearable hotness in my room,only three hours were in a moderate sleepy condition.

Let me talk about Social sector and environment Economics.From my inner mind,I much care about social security program which is attractive factor for me to study in India.I have been pursuing national health care system in my country,because sickness is our biggest enemy.Many a youngster does not take his health seriously,only because they never experience the ambiguous boundary between life and death.

Education is my main focus when I and my friends were dedicated to supporting disadvantageous pupils and teachers in mountainous areas in Yunnan.Nothing is more important than education for those remote even isolated villages.This action directly changed my value and perspective in terms of social justice.In contemporary China,people are quite sensitive to social equity and equality from education to job markets.

Environment protection is a controversial topic in a fast changing society.Everyone likes to have more development at the cost of environment degradation,because our last generation has suffered much from poor conditions.Even if many observers blame Beijing for not take serious measures to protect environment,a large number of migrants rush to this city for self-modernization.

All these topics are common sense,due to our experience during our childhood.But every subject has his own advanced methodology and techniques.Therefore,We all are short men when we continue this field in future.

Anyway,I wish the summer could leave us quickly,life is too harsh in a sweltering day.

08,May,2015

Agriculture sector is important,but the popularity of agriculture related subjects is not high at least in China.If you tell others that you get admission into agriculture university,they will laugh at you for your irrational choice.This atmosphere is quite prevalent,so,entrance marks are relatively low compared with other subjects.In many universities,they do not provide agriculture courses,of course,agriculture economics is not available.

Agriculture economics becomes a sub-subject of agriculture finance, it focuses on how to use financial instruments to support agricultural production. Cooperative communities are encouraged due to central government's promotion, we have been borrowing experience from Germany and Taiwan to strengthen farmer's negotiation capacity and risk-resistance capacity.

As for pricing of agriculture products, this is a new field for financial engineering students, because they do research on futures and options with complicated pricing theories. Chicago is a vital centre for global agricultural product's allocation with its pricing discovery mechanism.

Analyzing agriculture product value chain is an essential topic for management students, because from seed to factor input to marketing, the whole chain should be smoothly run. Whether you believe or not, global agricultural products are priced by financial institutions especially investment banks. Because of existence of Chicago mercantile exchange, so we should know it controls the price of primary products from there.

There is no any country becoming rich only dependent on agriculture sector, New Zealand, Canada, Australia, Argentina are also not only dependent on mineral ores, milk.

Today is a special and impressive day. When I went to department office for admit card of exam the day before yesterday, many students told me that we should write our test in old building of faculty of social science. I deeply believe in that, however, when I rushed to old building, I found nobody can be found.

I know I have no choice but to continue searching for my classroom. I returned to that bullet board for classroom number, I was so frustrated with that because of nothing there. When I was trapped there, I suddenly saw professor NP Singh in a classroom. I was hurried to talk to him for help, he asked another one working staff to help me. They all spoke Hindi, I did not understand at all, I worriedly ask them for help, I and the kind brother ran to the grass ground, then I jumped to the other side till new building.

It is still no direction in front of me. I walked back and forth in the ground floor, but I only saw closed room with lock. I compromised to myself to plan to slow down, at the same time, Professor NK Mishra came to me, he asked me which room number. I replied to him 250, he said upper floor. However, when I rushed to upper floor, I still found nothing. When I decided to go down to NK Mishra again, Pargarati said to me it is located in the top floor. Suddenly, I hardly lost my breath.

As for public policy and social choice theory, it is not new subject at all for majority of students. From government revenue to government expenditure, and government action to economic conditions, how they impact the economic agents and so on. How can we explain interest group lobby behavior, how to understand party politics, how to get maximum social welfare when one policy is implemented, etc.

What I get is that economics logic can be used to any fields for economic explanation. From politics to law, from behavior to health, education, economics is the master of all subjects. We should know whether democracy is perfect for society or not. How to devise the optimal taxation system to take care of economic efficiency and equity in the society. How the economic departments are interrelated to each other, when we impact one sector, the other related sector also will get affected due to free choice and pursuit of self-interests.

It should be meaningful and useful for a student to understand operation mechanism of the government. When we are informed, we know how to affect government's action to get our interests at the cost of others. If it is written using computer, I could write quite fast, but it is unreal.

Today is special day, These days are too hot, I can not sleep well, I do not read at all, day time, just for sleeping. It seems that hotness is my enemy, how to defeat it is my task. All in all, Public policy and social choice should be based on moral philosophy and justice subjects. We should have foundations of equity and efficiency, democracy and social choice.

Say you next time, Environmental and social sector Economics

An interesting case happening in our hostel.

Following my foot step (I posted a paper to express our condolence for Nepalese people), a PG level Sri Lankan student studying Journalism posted a paper in which there is a proposal made that we should complaint about unclean even dirty bathroom in our side of hostel due to irresponsible cleaner recruited by hostel administration.

When I go through the door, I suddenly find that some responses have been straightforwardly given near to that paper. Some think that it is not about cleaner's attitude to his duty, all we should ascribe the problem to is misbehavior of some of students residing in the hostel.

They blame some of students wash their oily utensils in washing sinks improperly, and through big pack of objects into toilets and so on.

The student who posted the paper is regular food maker in his room, so series of problems come to his front.

Of course, for a student focusing on Economic behavior, analyse the case in another one logic with a simple framework. I could conclude that the proposal is just an approach to expression of public opinions instead of getting any fruitful result.

What is the logic? It is because of disparity between individual cost and social cost, individual benefit and social benefit. In our case, it is obvious that the student wish to transfer his individual cost to the whole community, but gain more individual benefit at the cost of the whole community. He does not plan to internalize his individual cost even compensate a part of social cost caused by him. Even if he is willing to compensate his part of externality, but he does not do it by himself.

Washing utensils is not only his behavior, instead there are 4 students doing the same thing like him. If he plans to internalize his externality by self-discipline, once there is at least one student being unwilling to cooperate with him, his internalization of externality will benefit those students who do not cooperate with him through self-discipline to keep bathroom clean. Naturally, he is not willing to lose his benefit to satisfy others, hence, there are two alternative choices in front of him, one is to give up so-called self-discipline, the other one is to gather all food makers to reach a group treaty to solve the problem.

However, the last solution will always fail, because that nobody wants to publicly announce he is cooking food in his room using scarce electricity. Our hostel rules that using cooker and heater is punishable without permission, every one highly understand that violation of the rule is problematic to his continuous study in BHU. Finally, students would intentionally tell wrong information so as to avoid possible secret leak, then cooperation among them is at a low probability.

If I can use some words to describe what the reality in the case is, they are "rational ignorance", "non-cooperative game", "internalization of externality", "information asymmetry".

Actually, the process could continue, but we want to stop here.

Damli, one of my classmates from Northeastern India.

It is likely that we share similar appearance, so we naturally become very good friends.

I have visited his dormitory for many times for many cases, it is just because of his sincerity and devotion to friends.

Many people said that Indian Northeastern place is quite backward in terms of human development indicators. But in my views, those places are more civilized, it is because that India so-called mainstream society is crowded, noisy, disordered and polluted.

India consists of two societies, one is elite class, the other one is large number of low level poor. Around the world, many high profile leaders of multinational companies are led by Indian nationals. They speak fluent English, wear nice suits, live a Western style life, have more advantages over other nationals; however, another side is that large number of poor people suffer from malnutrition and polluted water and so on. They do not have enough food, no asset, no income, no shelter, so that they are placed in a disadvantageous edging rim.

The society is problematic,one is slowing development of society,the other is expanding gap in the society,but they call themselves democracy.We clearly know that democracy in India is only enjoyed by few elite members via vote or lobby means,but majority of common people do not even know the game rule,regardless to say their participation in the democratic process.

We think Chinese people quality is not as good as Japanese,for example,they strictly follow the rule,they keep everything in good order.We humbly learnt many things from our neighbors in order to catch up with him.Marriage with Japanese girls in China is quite prevalent in Northeastern provinces near to Japan.

Whether education can change an individual behavior or not is doubtful in the context of India.How can you imagine countless rubbishes in front of a hostel for a long period of time?Every time,after a seminar or a meeting,the hall or classroom if filled with rubbishes.Ask why?they said that because the office staff would sweep that after this.

Indian Northeastern people should be placed in an important level instead of marginalizing them.With our standard,English speakers in those places are quite many,they are hard working,they contribute a lot to Indian culture.

Damli,would get admission into faculty of law from UG level,he just said that he is more interested in law than Economics.I respect his choice,but his friendship with me is never ending.

My ideal job is to critically evaluate the society.

When I am angry to some social phenomena,I could get my voice heard in a big platform.

When I debate with others,I use data and logic deduction to argue for my points.

What is the meaning?I wish to own a news media company,then I have a mutual fund to invest in different markets.

One side is to experience diverse cultures,by the way,to gain commercial opportunities.

It is too ideal.

30,Apr,2015

After middle test,I met two students who are from Department of Economics.Then I requested one of them to give me a piece of cope of Environment economics for reviews.When he responded to me,I totally got shocked.He said that it is an advantage for him if he does not share that to me,so he seemingly refused.I suddenly feel some problematic.

I deeply believe that many friends in our class in India are highly willing to share their views and materials to me.I can not criticize this behavior,because we are born in different culture.However,I understand sharing information is too essential for all of us to grow up,because the experience is from my previous three jobs.

Poverty reduction,financial product trading,finance services are all information-driven cases.I do not care about your identity,whether or not you are from poor villages or rich families is not important,because social mobility will change of road of life.

In India,I just wish to keep calm,how to gain happiness is my pursuit.

Niraj Kumar,he is one of my classmate.

He is taking care of his family member because of sickness.

He is first student I really remember during my India trip,because of his friendliness and generosity.

Every time,when I have any doubt about class schedule,I will enquire his about this.And he always seriously answers my doubts without any reservation,then,he sends best wishes to me.

Nowdays,He can not attend the class in our department due to some problems in front of him.He is actively debating with me about many social and economic issues,we are really enjoying that type of atmosphere.

Actually,we rarely have good friends in our life,but sharing same aspects is a precondition for friendship to grow up.He,as an Indian,I am quite impressive from many aspects.

I wish we could continue our friendship in the future like the great wall of China.

30,Apr,2015

Satarupa Mitra,she is one of my classmates in our department.

I met her in a classroom of department where we made preparation for Teacher's day.

When I was on the way to go back to my hostel,she came outside to stop me,and invited me to the classroom for rehearsal.

After that meeting,She always helped me in many fields.I was quite strange for Indian university system,she guided me to solve my problems to the maximum extent.

Sometimes,when she was free,she would come to my hostel gate to call me for walking.I rarely refused any proposals from others.She introduced her UG level life and her family story,I was deeply interested in these talks.

Whatever happens,she could greet me when we met again.I am highly impressed by her kindness and frankness.I treated her like my younger sister in my mind.

In future,I would send postcards to her for memory.If possible,I invite her to visit my city Guangzhou.It is full of uncertainty,my future maybe located in Beijing or Tianjin,go and see.

I wish she had a happy life.

I show sympathy to our neighbors of Nepal,in front of disaster,we should stand together to confront it.

Even if I just donated 500 Rupees for Nepalese brothers,but I have to say students who organized a fundraising activity are quite unwelcome in terms of preparation for this.

I am willing to donate cash to any community which is worthwhile my action,but I hate to be forced to donate fund through any naive approaches.

As for their collection of fund to support disaster-stuck place in Nepal,I feel uncomfortable in my deep mind.Why?

They are not really taking donors for seriously.

No any paper to describe how to use fund?

No any receipt to be issued to donors for memory?

No tracking clue about usage of fund,feedback?

Only two students brought a bad-looking box,they knocked on your door,told you nothing,then requested you to donate money.And adding one more sentence,it is your wish to donate or not your money into Nepalese community.

I think this is too naive and brutal way for fund collection,they do not have any experience of charity operation.I advised them to organize public fundraising activity in an open space with all Nepalese student in BHU,information transparency is necessary.

I have experienced many-time unwelcome fund collection request in India,I really do not support even hate this type of activity.Do not knock on other people's doors for fund collection,it is unaccepted.

I do not like this type of culture,because charity needs to respect donor's willingness.I promise if I meet this situation again,I definitely refuse it unless it is deeply moving and inspiring by their preparation.

19,Apr,2015

Every day,too many people die,but we do not care about them.Why?

Because these cases are not closely connected to our interests,above all,we can do nothing to prevent such things from happening.

What we do is to learn these lessons through their death in order to keep ourselves in a safe condition.

Sometimes,human beings are quite brutal and selfish.

Too many illegal immigrants risk their lives to leave for their ideal places for better life,but those citizens in the ideal place do not wish to lose their cakes.

This is why I really want to understand life and death.It is likely that I die from any causes without signals,but I could not find the road to return.

Different cultures,different ages,different experiences,have different concepts on life and death.

21,Apr,2015

I wish Hillary Clinton could succeed in presidency of USA,because she always publicly criticizes Chinese government's violation of human rights.

I do not hope all countries make compromise to Chinese government's desire about so-called meritocracy philosophy.We have to start our political reform towards more democratic system,otherwise,it is likely that political interests would become obstacles for economic development.

A country should prioritize social security programs.Actually it is quite understandable that all social security programs are respectively related to different age level of life.From your birth to the world,you should be integrated into a part of that program through series of government initiatives.

Frankly speaking, social security programs all aim at reducing the fluctuation level for an individual. What is the meaning? It means that when we are really helpless, the final reference which can be resorted to is our government. You should observe some social tragedies, some people are in unemployment, some in accident, some in sickness, some in aging stage, some in orphan condition, and so on. If government does not do some favors to these disadvantaged people, they are sooner or later eliminated from our society.

This is what Marxists criticized capitalism during industrial revolution, now days, almost all capitalist nations have similar trends to welfare state direction. In fact, communism is not a bad ideology once you really understand what it advocates, but it is not practical and applicable in our current society due to limited resources constraint.

Any field is quite complicated, when I go through some materials related to health care system models around the world, I am getting shocked, so many different approaches to deliver a necessary health care services.

I advocate universal health care concept, right to life is essential to other rights, almost all developed countries except USA have built up a system in which general taxation is used to finance health care services. China is on the process of national health care coverage, even if new rural and urban cooperative health insurance can not cover all fees and diseases.

American health care system is quite badly performed, its private insurance companies provide health care to high income earners, but poor families still suffer from some serious financial problems. In socialist countries, I most appreciate Cuba model; Cuba's education sector and health sector are globally praised due to its broad coverage and efficiency.

India has a long way to go for better health care system especially for poor classes, private health insurance dominates Indian health and life insurances. Indian government allocates a small portion of fund to health sector compared with global level, rural areas are not accessible to good medical services.

At the same time, I wish a member of one of my classmate family could recover himself from sickness in Varanasi hospital.

18, Apr, 2015

Tonight, we had international house day celebrated in our hostel.

I observed that so-called internationalization of Banaras Hindu University is just about expansion of number of Nepali students, hence, university could not be named international university.

Secondly,students from Yemen want to show their culture through varieties of approaches,but conflicts can not really attract students' eyes,This is a realism reflection.

Thirdly,students from Tibet can be compatible with Chinese,because of our mutual understandings.I lost my national anthem due to computer problem,one of them gave me downloaded Chinese national anthem.

Fourthly,festival is festival,we all enjoy it.However,Vice-chancellor does not come here to address something,it is pitiful.

13,Apr,2015

There are no game theory and mechanism design,auction theory professors in our department,these latest and advanced subjects are quite interesting for younger students.

Our department has no law and economics interdisciplinary new subject,it causes students not have any capability to analyse law logic with economics tools.

Department of Economics,BHU has no financial economics in MA,this sets limitations on students' understandings on financial system,banking,stock market,insurance,trust,financial renting and so on.

Economics department does not have behavior economics and experiment economics courses,it directly blinds the students in front of complex society.Austrian school of economics says that economics is just about human inner psychology subject.

My favorite course is the only economic explanation founded by Steven N.S Cheung,it is most creative subject around our life.Our department has some places for improvement in terms of teachers' quantities and specialization.The newest fields are not accessible for students in our department.

13,Apr,2015

Today,two classmates' birthday is coincident.

Professor Rakesh Raman is absolutely an appreciated teacher from teaching standpoint.

Of course,I do not know his research achievement in macroeconomics.If he published some papers on top level economics magazine,he should have been recruited by any distinguishable institutions.

If he is willing to teaching in Chinese universities,I think he is perfectly qualified for that from teaching experience and language background.

So-called economics society of BHU exists symbolically due to unknown factors. In the beginning, we should have known that a society initiated by master students instead of research scholars will definitely disappear earlier or later.

Frankly speaking, lack of interactive communication in some interesting fields is frustrating. In China, we could debate with our friends at any time from a basic social phenomenon.

Every day, our teachers would share some latest news about national or international economic affairs.

09, Apr, 2015

Frankly speaking, two days back, when I wrote a paragraph of sentences to state my observations in Tibet community in India, I never thought how frustrating the responses were from our Chinese internet users.

I said that our government should give me freedom of religion and autonomous power to local government, then many irrational internet users criticized me as a betrayal and supported separation of Tibet.

From this case, I could understand how strong pressure from Chinese people it is, when we refer to any issues about Tibet. They do not understand history, regardless to say, their understandings on current issues, this is beyond my expectation.

Tibet is a unitary part of China, but we should give them more autonomy power in many fields. We never accept any request for separation of Tibet, but we should gradually reform our political framework. After one day, my post has been deleted in that forum even if I have cooperation relationship with the news media. Online censorship is still prevalent, we expect slow change.

AIIB, NDB, Silk road Fund are all targeting to cut a hole in our current unfair financial system. It is a challenge for governance of international institution, at the same time, it is more like an opportunity because we can better use our 3-4 trillion dollar reserve assets instead of supporting American consumption.

London is a major clearance and settlement centre for Chinese RMB dominated assets in an international market. Once our capital account is open to international market, in addition to foreign exchange rate liberalization, then IMF's special drawing rights would add RMB as one member of the existing currency basket. We can imagine we would less rely on Dollar to do international transaction and preservation of value of financial assets. More importantly, we could weaken the hereditary position of Federal reserve in the field of macro monetary policy.

My limited understanding on Tibet issues.

Tibet should be an integral part of China in majority of Chinese peoples' minds,because in history,Mongolian ethnics overcame Tibet and Han ethnics,finally created a unified Yuan dynasty.This is a part of reasons why Buddhism could be prevailing in East Asia,due to the emperor's commitment to Buddhism of Yuan dynasty(In Tang dynasty,Buddhism has become popular in China).

After Yuan dynasty,Ming Dynasty and Qing Dynasty had totally overcome Tibet,if we counted it,at least,there are several hundred years even one thousand years since Tibet was submerged into China.Indeed,the ending years of weak Qing dynasty and separated Republic of China gave opportunities to Tibetans to announce their independence declaration.As we known,Tibet has several decade independence status in 20th century,but communist party totally defeated Tibetan small-scale armies.Tibet was a part of China time and again.

What I want to say is that separation activity is impossible under current political system of China.However,more autonomous power should be given to local Tibet government due to some special issues.An authoritarian government has no choice but to oppress any groups who are against the government's authority.Many people in Tibet immolate themselves for more freedom even independence,this is just wastage of lives due to present situation in Tibet.

More democracy can resolve these issues properly,for example,referendum in Tibet.

About Pakistan and Pakistani people

Whether you accept or not,Pakistan is a brother-like neighbor for China and Chinese.

When you go to London,when you go through Pakistani-owned shops,they would warmly ask you whether you are Chinese.When you reply to them,you are indeed Chinese,I definitely tell you much discount will be given to the buyers.

When you go to Pakistan via costume checking point,you just show your Chinese passport,almost several seconds would be given to you as a special treatment.In Islambad,capital of Pakistan,around the streets,you find out many posters on which "Chinese nationals are 30-50% discount" is imprinted.

You maybe never imagine that in Sindh province,Chinese language is a compulsory subject for primary students,because of heavy investments in Karachi industrialized coastal city.

What really impressed Chinese people is that when SiChuan province of China was hit by 8.0 level earthquake,Pakistani people almost collected all possible tents and basic needs to China.When media asked why a poor country became a largest tent suppliers,the government of Pakistan said that our brother needs us help,we would do whatever we can to help them without hesitation.At this time,all Chinese are moving and inspiring,hence,Chinese government and civil society always support Pakistani people in front of natural disasters.

These are just parts of brotherly relationship between two countries people.As for politics,I should leave it for professional experts to review.For example,Chinese government aided Pakistani government to develop nuclear weapons.Pakistan is the largest market of Chinese military weapons.Pakistan is quite strategic place for Chinese government to influence Muslim Middle East countries.Pakistan government ever was a helper for China and USA to build up formal diplomatic relationship.This is politics,it is far away from us.

But I can promise you Pakistani people are treating Chinese people really brothers and sisters.If you have chance to visit Pakistan.

By the way,we are quite familiar with Pakistan affairs,from geography,contemporary history,international relation.

About Russia and Russian People

Many outsiders naively think that Russia and China could be permanent allies to counter against Western countries.They indeed observed that China and Russia often stand together to as opposite forces against Britain,France and USA in United security council meetings.

Russian economy is heavily dependent on Oil and gas export to ear money for living.Of course,Russian timber is quite rich in terms of quantity and quality.All in all,Russian economy is driven by natural resources export and military trade.

How backward the light industry in Russia is?I can tell you even a piece of cloth,a pile of paper can not be made easily and economically,so that Chinese products are most welcome in those places closer to our borders.

Russia is also having a skewed economic power distribution around his territory.In history,Russia was just a small emperor country located in European continent.However,Russian like to fight with other ethnics,hence,they expanded their territories till far eastern areas.

A large amount of territory was ceded to Russia due to unfair treaty between weakest Qing dynasty and aggressive Russia emperor.Totally,there is about 1.6 million KM square territory occupied by Russia today. However, the former president Jiang signed a funny treaty with Russian counterpart, so that Russia legally controls the disputed places. As you know, China and India are arguing disputed land, even if those areas are quite smaller than Russian controlled areas. Meaningless!

Chinese people do not really like Russian, because aggressive Russians often do something which is disobeying internationally accepted rule. For example, They invaded Afghanistan, directly leading to current disaster in that country. Many people think we do not have war with Soviet Union or Russia, this is too romantic and unreal.

Chinese government helped Russia to stabilize his economy via buying treasury bill, his purpose is simply to offset Western countries influences. Once Russia is defeated from economy, then USA-leading Western group will have more influence than today. This is what Chinese government does not want to face in future.

This world needs to be balanced again, Neither Western countries or other countries dominate the world system. Americans use Chinese lending money to consume, then they issue currency to diminish real return. This is why AIIB is initiated by government, Silk fund and New development bank are both complementary to existing financial systems.

I have said many times, happiness and health are most important in our life. What is the meaning? It says that physical life and spiritual life are organic parts of our life.

When you enjoy your physical life, but your spiritual life is empty, then you would break down sooner or later; When you enjoy your spiritual life, but your physical life is worrisome, then you would be eliminated by the society in near future.

I left my family for a period of time, I feel unprecedentedly free even if my physical life is tough and challenging. My father would like to impose his opinions on his offspring in his early age, at that time, I understood how important so-called democracy system is for an individual multi-dimension development.

I always create uncertainty in my life, all choices of life are from my understanding our society. The value of life for a person can never be priced with a fixed discount rate, when his life is full of uncertainty in terms of his choices.

You may think it reasonable that we all should have the same life process from birth to school to job to marriage to family to death. However, I deliberately make some processes upside down, so you never can price my life in a predictable time point. It is likely that I am an adventurous creature, I venture into my unknown but interesting fields at any time beyond your expectation. At this time, you are despicable of me for low ability to compete with you, but to next time line, I have made another a choice, so that you do not know what the life track would be created in my life.

Choice could make your life much perfect,of course,many factors will not allow you to make more choices in our life.However,the meaning of life is to live well,how to live well is to live meaningful,how to live a meaningful life is to make some choices incompatible with normal life process.

With this dairy to pay tribute to Lee Kuan Yew and those innocent passengers

Life is a controversial topic,so I am deeply interested in how to deal with meaning of life and death.Frankly speaking,I am afraid of death even ill,for me,physical body is as important as mental body.

Whether you believe or not that every one just exists with a probability,I insist that living a life be on the basis of probability.To the opposition of living,death is our final destination.

even though our assumed enemies are not going to take action against our interests,we intrinsic mind is to take an action to gain our enemies' interests even eliminate them.

We care about the entity,we also care about the person,but we care more about the entity,considering the entity has a more democratic decision system.

Many friends ask me whether I would go back to my hometown for summer vocation,I am anxious to return to my home for taste of our home.

However,when I enquire about this visa procedure for Chinese student in India,I hardly cry to death.Many documents need to be prepared and long-time waiting.

Last time,a South Korean brother said he easily go back and forth from India to his country without any documents,I understand how hard it is for me in a hot summer.

I have been scared of Visa registration,extension and other cases related,last summer brought me serious damage to my memory.

Anyway,It depends on the situation,if I could easily get return Visa,I plan to fly to Guangzhou to reunite with my family;If it is not possible,I plan to do part-time job in India or have a short tour in mountainous areas in India.

Who cares about your identity?Last time,an English girl asked me to Ghats,I agreed on her request.On the way,one local Indian man positively showed his warmth to her,but she never accepted his warmth.

When we arrived at the Ghat,the man talked about everything to her.After our meeting with him,that girl expressed that she did not like that man,because he talked too much to her and so on.Afterwards,she requested me to wait for her for a while when she was planning to purchase some Indian artifacts,I said only five minutes given to you.We had a good experience.

What I want to say is that nobody will care about your identity,the only thing attractive to me is your perspective on our life.This world can not be changed by your identity only,but by your creativity.Indians are definitely natural leaders,because they are active to serve others.

Through my stay in department of Economics,let me describe my professors using one adjective word.I declare that all of them are knowledgeable and learned.

No order of distinguishment.
